

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

ORANGE SKY CONFIRMED TO ROCK WITH KING'S X, IN SUPPORT OF LATEST RELEASE, 'DAT IZ VOODOO'

Port of Spain, Trinidad may not be the first city music fans think of when the discussion of 'hot rockspots' comes up. But if the sophomore effort from Orange Sky, 'Dat Iz Voodoo,' is a representation of the local talent, it may soon join the likes of New York, Seattle, and London, as the group (which is comprised of singer/lead guitarist Nigel Rojas, rhythm guitarist Joel Beazer, bassist Nicholas Rojas, keyboardist Richard Hall, and drummer Obasi Springer) will be opening up a string of Texas dates with metal legends King's X. "We have always loved King's X, some of us since the early '90s," says Rojas. "We did one opening slot for them last year, in Kentucky, and got to meet Doug and the guys personally. They put on an incredible live show and we are honored to be able to share the stage with them."

The style that Orange Sky specialize in is quite varied...yet rocking. Perhaps a fan once gave the group the highest compliment, by gushing, "You guys sound and perform like if the Wailers and Black Sabbath had a baby." "I call our sound 'rock and roll'," says Nigel. "We emulate everything - hard rock, soft rock, punk, reggae, and metal, so I think the term rock and roll covers all these styles, and does not create an expectation from the potential listener of us being too metal, too reggae, too hard, or too soft. Our overall style offers all these soundscapes, colors, and emotions."

'Dat Iz Voodoo,' released via StarCity Records, represents a rebirth of sorts for Orange Sky, and proves that the group's critically acclaimed debut, 2006's 'Upstairs,' was no fluke. Case in point, the album-opening riff monger "Yesterdays and Tomorrows," the thrashy "Psycho World," the industrial-strength reggae-rock of "Is There Anybody There?" (which is a barely recognizable cover of a Scorpions song), and the crunching funk-metal riffs of "Dark Room." But there is one song specifically that stands out for Nigel. "I would say 'Alone,' because it is a blast from the past - we all like to think of it as a song we could share on the radio." A dozen songs in all, guaranteed to get fists pumping and moshpits swirling - with a couple of lighters-in-the-air/arm-around-your-girl moments in between.

And while 'Dat Iz Voodoo' is a fine stylistic showcase for the group, the quintet promises fans that they will take it to the next level on the album's ensuing tour. "Orange Sky live is one hell of a bad ass, fist pumping, heart melting, hilarious, thought provoking assault on the nervous system! Within an hour, our show will turn everyone exposed to us into our new friends and future Orange Sky seed sowers. Sounds arrogant? Not intended, just what we know what we are capable of - ask anyone who has been there. We seriously rock!"

ORANGE SKY HEADLINING ENGAGEMENTS:

- 4/25/09: The Pit in Jacksonville, Florida
- 4/29/09: The Garage in St. Petersburg, Florida
- 5/1/09: Pegasus Lounge in Tampa, Florida
- 5/2/09: Backstage Lounge in Gainesville, Florida
- 5/7/09: The Dungeon in Orlando, Florida
- 5/8/09: Doc's Place in Lakeland, Florida
- 5/16/09: Bourbon Street in New Port Richey, Florida
- 5/21/09: Flamingo Cantina in Austin, Texas
- 5/23/09: Bonds 007 in San Antonio, Texas

TOUR DATES W/ KING'S X:

- 5/28/09: Jack's Patio Bar & Grill in San Antonio, TX
- 5/29/09: Josabi's in Helotes, TX
- 5/30/09: Meridian in Houston, TX
- 6/1/09: Red Eyed Fly in Austin, TX
- 6/2/09: Club 101 in El Paso, TX
- 6/4/09: Brick By Brick in San Diego, CA
- 6/5/09: Key Club in West Hollywood, CA
- 6/6/09: Galaxy Theatre in Santa Ana, CA
- 6/8/09: Berbati's Pan in Portant, OR
- 6/9/09: El Corazon in Seattle, WA
- 6/10/09: The Grail in Ceour d'Alene, ID
- 6/12/09: Club Vegas in Salt Lake City, UT
- 6/13/09: Owsley's Golden Road in Denver, CO
- 6/15/09: The Waiting Room in Omaha, NE
- 6/16/09: The Riot Room in Kansas City, MO
- 6/17/09: Knickerbockers in Lincoln, NE
- 6/19/09: Nutty's North in Sioux Falls, SD
- 6/20/09: The Venue @ The Hub in Fargo, ND
- 6/24/09: House of Bricks in Des Moines, IA
- 6/26/09: Shank Hall in Milwaukee, WI
- 6/27/09: Double Door in Chicago, IL
- 7/1/09: Juanita's Cantina Ballroom in Little Rock, AR

FOR MORE INFORMATION, VISIT:

www.theorangesky.com

www.starcityrecording.com